$13,775,000 Deficit For Government Fiscal Year Shown In Finance Report

Total Revenues Highest Ever Known In Canada—Optimistic View Taken Of Economic Trends For Future

(Turn to Page Four for Detailed Budget)

OTTAWA, June 16.—Deficit of $13,775,000 for the government's fiscal year ending March 31, 1938, was reported to the House of Commons today by Hon. Charles Dunning, minister of finance, in his annual budget statement.

It was felt that by a reduction of 10 per cent in the military budget, and by some sound money policies, an exhaustive review of Canada's trade and finances and an optimistic view of economic trends for the future.

Total revenues were the highest in Canada's history, $3,000,000, and expenditures $3,000,000. This meant an increase in the net debt of $13,775,000, the nearest Canadian figure being $12,642,000 in the previous year for Dunning's report. Of this total $44,000,000 were from taxation, $15,000,000 from the sales tax, income tax and customs duties.

Mr. Dunning said that in 1936-37 the reported deficit was $77,831,000, and that when I delivered the budget speech last year I did not expect to have a deficit of less than $13,775,000.

"We have done so much better than I expected, and the most gratifying when we consider the abnormal item of $8,000,000 added to the anomalies recoveries, which shows an anticipated increase in our expenditures resulting from the crop failure," he said.

"The increase in our special expenditures resulting from internal drought conditions was over $200,000, and the amount of C.N.R. deficit was at least $7,000,000. Had it not been for this unfortunate crop failure, I am sure that today I would have been able to report an overall surplus."

ON MONETARY REFORM

In answer to a general question of members, Mr. Dunning struck the highlights of his speech. He called it a "heavy fallacy" to suppose governments should pay no interest on their debts, and that a minister of finance nothing would make him task easier than to issue credit against the wants of the people. He said it was an inflationary proposal that would not lead to a sound and healthy economy.

The government's monetary policy was defined in these words:

"It has been an easy money policy designed to offset any deflationary tendencies and to ensure that the public and private credit would be available to meet the needs of industry and trade. It is also designed to help to promote the maximum possible sustained level of productivity and the greatest possible level of employment."

Peering at the economic horizon, as it may affect Canada, the minister said that the depression in the United States was scrapping the bottom and that remedial policies would be used.

HOPE FOR SUCCESS

In Great Britain and European countries, the armament race, short of a general reorganization of business "although none of us look forward with confidence to the most distant results of a programme of armament," was the concentration of the resources of the leading nations upon preparation for war.

But the results of the war were seen in the world political field and "we can only hope that the forces which are striving to prevent a general war will bring freedom, and we can hope that the world will be safe."

The finance minister said that the financial situation in Alberta was improving and all efforts to restore the Canadian standard of living.

As a world trading nation, Canada should not only attempt to increase its share of the world trade, Hon. Charles Dunning, in his budget speech, said.

The auto and lumber industries, and all other enterprises, should co-operate "in all efforts to restore the Canadian standard of living."

The auto is alleged to have been intended as the prize for the person holding the ticket of admission to the Canadian carnival bearing the lucky number.

TORONTO, June 16.—University of Toronto biology department will make palm and sole prints of people who have come to the city to determine as to whether they are to be determined when twins are to be born.

It is reported that 66 per cent of the total license revocations in Pennsylvania last year were the result of drunken driving.

and commentary on the statements made by our civilian forces.

With full realization of the present financial difficulties, the Alberta government passed acts for the relief of the oppressed people. Legislation was introduced to provide a system of rent for home owners, both rural and urban and to provide additional services to the people in the affairs of government from those sources which could best pay.

VICTIOUS CYCLE

But now comes the time when the new rules are to be enforced and new rules reflected in 1937 and the new rules were taxable. Estimate of the amount of tax to be paid by Dunning in his budget speech. He described it as giving greater stimulus to the economic progress of the country, any other industry. In 1937, production was estimated at $47,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year and a new record.

Thirty new gold mines were expected to open in 1938, increasing existing capacity by 11 per cent.

Tax-Free Bonds To Increase Income Tax

OTTAWA, June 16.—Dominion production records for the Canadian mining industry this year were expected to be higher than in 1937, Hon. Charles Dunning, in his budget speech. He described it as giving greater stimulus to the economic progress of the country, any other industry. In 1937, production was estimated at $47,000,000, an increase of 10 per cent over the previous year and a new record.

No Prosecutions Over Police Act

REGINA, June 16.—Hon. T. Davies, Saskatchewan attorney-general, said that no prosecutions would be launched as result of police actions of the meeting at Melville, Sask., before the election of the Social Credit candidate in the Saskatchewan general election.

Is this a case of the dog in the manger? The Dominion government has decided to prohibit individuals of interest rates of 8, 10, 12 and 14 per cent, while municipalities have agreed to limit rates to half to seven per cent on their money, with the inevitable result?

All the while the Dominion government does nothing. In fact we know that it prevents the municipalities from giving any relief whatever.

Alberta Measures Declared To Be Invasion of Federal Jurisdiction

PREMIER KING COMMENTS ON LEGISLATION

Acts Are Calculated To Bring About Debt Clearance Is Opinion

OTTAWA, June 16.—Premier Mackenzie King last night issued the following statement on disallowance of two Alberta legislative acts.

His Excellency the Governor General has approved on orders-in-council, dated June 13, 1938, the report of the minister of justice on nine acts of the legislature of Alberta, two of them enacted in 1937 and the remaining seven in 1938. All of these, save one, His Excellency has approved an order-in-council, dated June 13, 1938, disallowing two of the legislative acts.

An act for the security of home owners and a bill to certain securities in the year 1938.

PROTECTIONS PROHIBITED

The act for the security of home owners prohibits all proceedings for the foreclosure of mortgages, or sale under mortgage, on a farm-home or other property, or on land on which the house is situated. Similarly, under the act, it is prohibited to collect debts in the case of all mortgages on urban homes. It was introduced, it appears, to prevent the creditor from recovering the amount of the debt in the final order of foreclosures or sale. The act apparently provides that up to March 1, 1938, and makes no distinction between debtors who are able to pay and those who are not. The effect of the act is extremely vague, particularly with regard to the rights of the creditor.

REGARDLESS

The Securities Tax Act imposes a tax of five per cent on the unpaid principal sum of all mortgages on property in the province. The tax is imposed at the rate of five per cent on every dollar of unpaid principal sum of all mortgages in default. The tax is imposed on all mortgages whether held by residents of Alberta or otherwise, except that it is not imposed on a mortgage on real property liable for income tax in the province. The tax is payable regardless of the real value of the security, or the actual income derived from the mortgage.

In the view of the government, the two acts which have been disallowed form the central part of a scheme of legislation which, under guise of establishing a comprehensive system of social security, is in reality a scheme of financial claims and of taxing property in the province, is calculated to bring about a general clearance of mortgage debt in the province.

Creditors.

Domestic corporations such as insurance companies, trust and loan companies, established under the laws of Canada, and doing business in Alberta, would be affected; their Canadian, most of whom outside Alberta, are expected to bear the burden of this scheme of repayment and discharge. A two per cent tax is designed to provide revenue for the province of Alberta derived largely from sources outside the province.

PROBLEMS EFFECT

The superintendent of insurance has stated that the problem of insurance companies in Alberta is the result of the fact that the majority of persons under his supervision have no assets, and that the assets of insurance companies by the dominion government would be an "anomily."

"These enactments are an affront to the principles of justice, and to the welfare of the people of our group for persons for another group; they authorise and encourage the practice of debt collection without the ability to pay their debts. They discriminate in that they seek to reduce the debts at the expense of Canadians generally. They impose such a burden on domestic corporations as will deprive Canadian citizens in Alberta of the services rendered by them. If allowed to operate they will injure public and private credit in Canada."

He proceeds to point out that it is one of the cardinal principles of the Act of Confederation that Canadian provinces should be confirmed, in their exercise of their sovereign legislative power, to enact laws which are in accordance with the principles of justice. The legislature of Alberta has not, in the minister's opinion, and in that of the superintendent, done its duty in that regard.

The banking, insurance and industrial corporation bill was introduced in the legislature, it is true, but deliberately legislated in a manner injurious to the public interest of Canada, and contrary to the intention of the Act of Confederation.

While reserving judgment on the other statutes under review, the government for a clear duty to advise His Excellency that the Home Owners Security Act and the Home Owners Security Tax Act.

The pioneer of service station managers was a man who, in 1897, in East Orange, N. J., drove his horses and wagon and carried coal for motorists who were stalled

Full Statement On Disallowed Acts Made By Lapointe

OTTAWA, June 16.—Following is a partial text of Justice Minister Lapointe's report to the cabinet on nine Alberta acts, two of which were disallowed Wednesday.

The undersigned has the honor to report that he has had under consideration authentic copies of acts of the legislature of Alberta, entitled:

1.—An act to amend and consolidate the Debt Adjustment Act, 1937. (C. S. Statutes 1937, 1st Session.)
2.—An act to amend the Debt Adjustment Act, 1937. (C. S. Statutes 1937, 3rd Session.)

3.—An act to amend the Debt Adjustment Act, 1937. (C. S. Statutes 1937, 3rd Session.)

4.—An act to amend the Limitations Act, 1937. (C. S. Statutes 1937, 3rd Session.)

5.—An act for the Security of Home Owners. (C. S. Statutes 1938.)

6.—An act to impose a tax on certain securities in the year 1938. (C. S. Statutes 1938.)

7.—An act respecting the suspension of proceedings in respect of certain debts of debtors. (C. S. Statutes 1938.)

8.—An act to provide for the limitation of increase in taxes payable by holding corporations. (C. S. Statutes 1938.)

9.—An act to amend and consolidate the Tax Recovery Act. (C. S. Statutes 1938.)

DATES OF ASSENT

The first mentioned statute was assented to on the 17th June, 1937; the second mentioned statute was assented to on the 5th October, 1937; the seventh and eighth statutes were assented to on the 31st December, 1937; the ninth statute received assent on the 8th April, 1938.

The undersigned, after careful consideration of these nine statutes, recommends and advises as follows:

WITH REFERENCE TO THE "Debt Adjustment Act, 1937," for the reasons that, that disallowance would be ineffective, it appears unnecessary that the same be interfered with.

KIDDING FARMERS

"Stanley Maclean, president of Stanley Packers, has seen kiddie farmers for years and making monkeys of them," said Mr. Stevens. "And I say, he is making a monkey of himself."

The undersigned, after careful consideration of these nine statutes, recommends and advises as follows:

WITH REFERENCE TO THE "Tax Recovery Act, 1938," it would appear advisable that action should be deferred pending further study of the statute.

With reference to the "Banking Corporation Act, Temporary Amend." for the reason that the fact that there is an appeal to the privacy commission in which the Canadian government is in question, action on the Alberta statute is in question, action should be deferred for disallowance should be deferred.

WITH REFERENCE TO

With reference to "The Tax Recovery Act, 1938," it would appear advisable that action should be deferred pending further study of the statute.

There was not an independent packer in Canada who would not endorse the statement if they did not consider it in the weight of Canadian Packers.

COMMAND PREMIUM

Only 10 per cent of packers were reported and it would be difficult for the packers to keep prices down on this 10 per cent in order to reap a larger profit in the hope of getting a larger share in Canada.

Canada Packers would ship bacon on the quality shipped by some of the packers in Canada. The bacon would command a premium on the British market instead of some of the others, such as Danish, Irish and Dutch bacon.

In five years the Canadian farmers had lost $80,000,000 which may have been followed.

NOT ENOUGH SELECT

Mr. Gardiner said his information was that there were not enough bacon packers to enable packers to ship only first class bacon but Mr. Stevens said there were not three thousand.

Cold storage companies "which have extracted millions from the packers" to keep prices down on this 10 per cent in order to reap a larger profit in the hope of getting a larger share in Canada.

"All companies with investments in Alberta have already suffered severely from the depression. The Canadian government is in great difficulty. Almost all companies have shown depreciation of nearly one-half of the amount collected.

These enactments are a result of these actions. It has been necessary for the department to revise the standards of many companies by reducing the value of assets and increasing reserves held again the same as to greatly reduce the amount of capital required for new investments, and to lessen the ability of the companies to withstand hazards of their own human hazards.

THESE ENACTMENTS ARE UNQUOTE

If this legislation is allowed to remain the task of the department becomes an impossible one and we might as well sit idly and let financial supervision by a government which lacks the power to adequately supervise the operations of all governments is an illusion.

These enactments are unquote in of one group of persons for another group; they authorize and encourage the practice of debt collection without the ability to pay their debts. They discriminate in that they seek to reduce the debts at the expense of Canadians generally.

They impose such a burden on domestic corporations as will drive them out of Alberta, thus depriving Canadian citizens of the services rendered by such companies. If allowed to operate they will injure public and private credit in Canada.

Fiscal Year 1937-38 Eventful and Dramatic, Finance Minister Says

Canadian Economy Gives Good Account of Itself Though World Disturbed

OTTAWA, June 16.—The fiscal year 1937-38 was eventful and dramatic, said Hon. Charles Dunning, finance minister, in opening his budget speech today. Last year he had stressed the dependence of Canadian economic progress on the preservation of peace and lessening of international friction. No one then could have foreseen the degree to which international relations had become disturbed in the interval.

Canadian economy, however, had given a good account of itself under the shadow of disturbing world events. The physical volume of business had expanded eight per cent from March to November, 1937, and then a decline had set in until April, 1938, when it was nearly nine per cent under April, 1937. Since then it had advanced 5.3 per cent.

In neither the United States nor the United Kingdom had there been the same reversal of the downward trend as in Canada. In the lag between the downward trend in Canada and other important countries was more remarkable in view of the crop failure in western Canada. Crop prospects for this year were favorable.

External Factors of Importance

Although the 1937 crop failure inevitably had an adverse effect on Canadian business, the nature of the resulting financial and external factors were of predominant importance. There was no lack of balance or other unbalance in the balance of payments. The nation had not got out of hand and industry and trade had expanded on a rational basis. There was no evidence of undue piling up of inventories.

"A critical examination of all the major factors leads me to the firm conviction that, had it not been for economic depression and political tension abroad, Canadian business would have continued its upward trend with only a moderate slackening in its rate of advance," he added.

International factors were chiefly evident in their influence on the export market and the minister proceeded to review trade figures for the year, stating clearly that there were in circulation more than $1 billion worth of goods in the market, albeit that the smoke cleared away the net result became evident, namely,

How Much Easier Task Would Be

"How much easier my task would be if I could draw the advantage of a better economic climate at home without paying interest thereon or if indirectly I could get the same results by getting a better economic climate without I have to pay interest on the Canadian people as individuals and not by the Dominion government."

"I am sometimes criticized because I do not accept the so-called 'new economics' which has been put forward. It does not seem to me that first name who, finding it difficult to replenish the royal coffers which it is holding, tries to find a way out of the difficulty of his terms it constitutes the most unusual and most interesting type of experiment."

"Not only that, but the inflation of expansion of currency and credit which it is attempting is bound to affect the value of the dollar subjects by debasing his currency."

"When I first introduced this cut-back program, I did not expect any stimulus to trade because there were in circulation more than $1 billion worth of goods in the market, albeit that the smoke cleared away the net result became evident, namely,

"This is not the way of sound and healthy prosperity. On a recent occasion in this house I had the privilege of discussing the money supply and the effect of inflation in this country in recent years and of showing why in my opinion that policy was wrong."

"It has been an easy money policy designed to offer any deflationary tendencies and to ensure that we would be able to meet the needs of our industry and trade. Its general objective has been to promote the maximum possible increase in production and the minimum possible level of unemployment."

"It is a tribute to the skill with which the policy has been administered that while currency and credit have been expanded at a quite rapid rate, the substantial rise in the cost of living which occurred has been compensated and has taken place without speculative excesses or other unusual features developing in our currency."

"The monetary policy must be given at least some share of the credit for the improvement of our internal economic conditions which I have already reported. We have been able to bring our budget into equilibrium with equal efficiency to the changing conditions that may arise in the future."

Cabinet Ministers Review Revised List of Sudeten German Demands

NAZIS HOLDING FOR EQUALITY OF TWO RACES

Entire Self-Government In Recognized Territory Also Asked

PRAHA: Czechoslovakia, June 18.—Cabinet ministers examined last night a revised list of Sudeten German demands for minority rights.

The session followed 24 hours of almost continuous discussions of the nationalities problem of Premier Miller, who has proposed a minorities statute and the Sudeten German demands. But statements from both sides indicated the Germans were holding out for:

EQUALITY OF STATUS

1. Equality of status between Czechs and Germans in Czechoslovakia.

2. Recognition of 3,000,000 Sudeten German population in Czechoslovakia as an entity.

3. Recognition of German territory as distinct from Czech territory.

4. Entire self-government in such territories.

5. Minimum protection for Sudeten Germans living outside such recognized territory.

6. Reparations for damages caused by Nazis in Germany since 1918 by "unjust" measures.

GERMAN OFFICIALS

7. Establishment of the principle of German officials for German territories.

8. The right of individuals to acknowledge their national nationality and to remain adherent to the German political ideology.

These would be more consistent than the eight demands made on Monday, April 24, when he asked for termination of the Russian-Czechoslovak alliance and recognition of the Sudeten German's right to agitate Nazi ideas in Czechoslovakia's German-inhabited districts, among other demands.

PERITONITIS PREVENTION IS NOW POSSIBLE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Peritonitis, the highly fatal abdominal infection, can be prevented, it was reported to the American Medical Association today, by use of birth control.

It is planted at the point peritonitis is likely to start after an operation. Their presence arrests the rush of peritonitis to what tissues which are the body's natural defences because they act bactericidally.

The traps are trapped for some time at this location, and prevent peritonitis infection from getting a start. The first 2,000 human cases on which this unique treatment was used were described in the scientific exhibit by Bernard L. Sacks, of Toledo, Ohio. There were two deaths, he said, and the cause of these were questionable.

What To Do

By Phyllis Belmont

Will you kindly tell me the following which I think I know but am not quite sure. (1) In passing a plate for a second helping, is it correct to remove the knife and fork to the table or let them remain on the plate? (2) When jelly is served in a small dish, is it correct to eat it with the dinner, or remove it to our plate with the other food?

MISS M. B., Etobicoke

Answer.—The knife and fork are placed side by side diagonally across the plate and slightly to the right. If there is a heavy meal, wait for the host to place the second helping. The knife is placed with the cutting edge toward the left. If the plate is small, the fork is placed with the tines pointing up ward.

Second, Jelly is generally placed on the side of the plate and eaten from there. However, if jelly is served as an accompaniment to the meat course, it is more polite for one to hear exactly the same music that is played by the orchestra, since the sounds are distorted considerably by the air

Debunker

By John Harvey Farbey, Ph.D.

NOBODY HEARS THE SAME MUSIC WHEN AN ORCHESTRA PLAYS

When an audience is seated it is to a symphony orchestra, it is impossible for one to hear exactly the same music that is played by the orchestra, since the sounds are distorted considerably by the air and objects in the room before they reach the listeners ear. When the music is broadcast, the distortion is even greater due to imperfections in the microphone. Even if the same music reached all ears, the difference in the quality of people's ear drums is so great, scientists say, that no two people would hear the same music. Some ears are changed by age, others are completely destroyed by different ears. Even new notes may be added by the ear drum. Nearly all ears favor certain tones at the expense of others.

Prison Reform

The Royal Commission headed by Mr. Justice Archambault, which investigated Canada's penal system, covered a lot of ground, topically and geographically. The report deals with the mechanism and methods employed in the punishment of law-breakers, from the management of Dominion penitentiaries to juvenile courts, taking in prison labor, segregation, parole, the Borstal system, centralization of control, and radix for prisoners.

While they do not say it in so many words, the investigators seem to have reached the conclusion that Major-General Ormond was about the poorest qualified man in Canada to direct the operations of the penitentiaries, and that his chief assistants were of the same type. Wherefore they recommend a general clearance of the headquarters staff.

Not only so; they also advise that the one-man control set-up be abolished, and replaced by a commission of three, whose business would be to supervise and direct the conduct of these institutions. A multitude of other recommendations testify to the industry of the commissioners and the numerous points at which they think changes should be made.

In general, the view of the investigators is that our penal system is too exclusively penal, and not sufficiently reformative. They want it overhauled with a view to introducing more humane methods, and aiming more at the salvation of the offender than at merely punishing him. If parliament can do this without turning the prisons into places for coddling criminals and thus encouraging crime, the change will be in keeping with public sentiment.

Vancouver Unloads on Edmonton

Single unemployed men, it is officially stated, have been arriving in Edmonton from British Columbia, their transportation paid by the B.C. authorities and no pains taken to find out whether the deportees ever lived here or anywhere in this province. When in plain language means British Columbia is "dumping" its unemployed into Alberta.

In the opinion of the British Columbia authorities that may seem a cheap and easy way to rid themselves of a nuisance. It does not relieve them of a burden, since they have not been providing relief to the men they are now shipping out. Nor does it automatically add to Alberta's relief burden, since this province is under no legal obligation to support men who have made their domiciles elsewhere; though ultimately it might come to that. Whatever other provinces may do, Alberta could hardly let men go hungry and ill-clad when winter comes, just because they had been railroaded hither.

Deportation does not solve the difficulty that has been bothering the Vancouver council and the B.C. Government. It only transfers the problem from Vancouver to Edmonton. The men are still unemployed, and in no prospect of getting employment. There are no jobs here for them.

Obviously the Dominion Government will have to take matters in hand; and either sort out single unemployed men in both provinces and return them to the provinces where they belong, or open up work projects which will provide them with employment. Falling that, what can Alberta do in self-defense except ship these new arrivals back to British Columbia—or to Saskatchewan?

Bank Service Is Vital

At the rate they are announcing intentions to close branch offices, Alberta may soon be distinguished among the provinces as the one where only residents of the cities and larger towns have the facilities provided by the banks for the safe-keeping of money and the carrying on of business.

There is involved in this a complete reversal of bank policy in Alberta. No type of large commercial institution has been in the past more ready than the banks to establish branches in small communities where success could only be assured by future and substantial increase of customers and turn-over.

As a result, businessmen, professional men, wage-earners and farmers everywhere have become used to doing business with and through the banks. Withdrawal of these from small centres would throw commercial relations there into confusion, stop the transaction of business in the way to which people have been accustomed, and compel the adoption of such expedients and make-shifts as might be possible.

It is generally assumed, and at least hinted in a statement issued on behalf of the banks, that the tax measures passed at the recent session of the legislature are the deciding factor in causing this change of bank policy from one of expansion to one of retrenchment. If so, the $107,000 which the legislature hoped to collect by the tax will be poor compensation for the chaotic condition into which expedites would be thrown and the costly expedients to which residents of the bankless communities would be driven.

Whatever the cause, it is of vital concern to the people of a very large section of the province that the bank-closing epidemic be stopped by some means and the branches marked for closing kept open. This is the twentieth century, not the eighteenth. It will not do to have people in the larger centres doing business by twentieth century methods but those in other parts forced to adopt the methods of their great-grandfathers.

A Notable Achievement

With modesty quietly adoring the Montreal Gazette is now observing its 160th birthday, making it one of the oldest newspapers on the continent. It was founded in 1773 amid circumstances of danger and romance. Benjamin Franklin, the homespun philosopher, and two American colleagues came to Quebec to induce it to break away from Canada and join the United States. This mission in folly reaped its proper reward. The province stood steadfast and the Gazette bravely became the apostle of the British connection.

Since then the paper has grown in stature and prestige so that its voice is heard with commanding authority on many a national issue. Although devoutly almost dogmatically, Tory in its convictions, its views are put with a clarity and scholarship that bespeak the ideals sustaining the Gazette.

The paper has washed away many landmarks since 1773, but the little sheet printed in an obscure office has weathered all diversity to become something like a national institution.

Editorial Notes

The munition factories which are being erected for the British war office will embody measures for protecting the workers against air attack. Precautionary schemes are being developed for other industrial buildings. Where are those fellows who told us that Canadians were doing more than worrying about the old lands?

The same Mr. Hepburn on Friday of this week, discussing Ontario's economic outlook with special reference to the relief situation, had this to say: "A good western wheat crop, with a corresponding increase in purchasing power and spurting of industrial activity in this province, might alleviate the situation."

Mr. Hepburn has given much to publicizing the virtues of wheat and a time will come when it will be hard for him to remember the things he has said talking on another subject. It is perhaps too much to expect that he would take a consistent attitude toward wheat, since this report has the misfortune to be from Ontario. In this case, it is clear from his passing reference to us while his mind was concentrating on higher matters, that he will welcome anything the West can do to increase purchased power and spur industrial activity. In short, he has taken the oft-repeated character of the remark that he regards this as one of the normal functions of Western Canada.

He will not take it amiss, therefore, if we say that wheat will occur in his writings on a good western wheat crop, and that we have ourselves noticed that good western crops have in the past been somewhat beneficial to Ontario—Winnipeg Tribune.

Current Comment

The Decay of Conservatism

With no members and less than half the vote of four years ago, the Conservative party has practically disappeared from the Saskatchewan political scene. It was weak in the first place, but the election was won, then it was not marked by any firm adherence to conservative principles, worthy as those principles may be when undiluted by strange doctrines. Western Canada is becoming more and more conscious of the fact that there is little place in its social and political life for the Conservative party. It is now the National Conservative party. The "any cost" campaign should, and probably has, terminated the period when the Conservative party was a potent influence in this province—Saskatoon Star-Phoenix.

Nationalist Treason

It will be interesting to observe the eventual effect of his new awareness, this triumph of suspicion over credibility. At the moment General Franco seems to have won the day. It is conceivable that even he could come to the conclusion that everybody in Europe was deciding Spain fate except the Spaniards. By the way, General Franco's opinions may be of little actual value, but even a Fascist general would be a horrid fate to him. The notion that he has kept his country in a state of war for two years in order to turn it over to foreigners would be an unsupportable one for a so-called Nationalist. No wonder people who spread it are shot—Belgrave Sun.

Bombing Partners?

We do not like the spectacle of our own State Department hastening the next day to parrot the British protest—playing as often the role of the Devil's advocate as the Devil himself. We are not selling bombs to the Fascist Powers (including France with whom to bomb Spanish citizens) (and the rest of the kit) we are giving arms to the Spanish Government. The same Under-Secretary Sumner Welles who dashed to the White House to obtain an American equivalent of the British protest against bombing of civilian prepared and put on the bomb-making machine, has now come to the rescue of the Fascists—under the war is over; i.e., France has won. Aren't we and the British silent partners in the bombings we deplore?—New York Post.

The Same Mr. Hepburn

A few weeks ago in his representations before the House of Commons concerning the proposed peace of Osoyoos, Hon. Mitchell Hepburn made it plain that he regarded Western Canada very much as a stepmother might regard a bawling brat. The West should be left to sink or swim, and only then, when it is down and out, eliminate its swells and wash its hands干净.

The same Mr. Hepburn on Friday of this week, discussing Ontario's economic outlook with special reference to the relief situation, had this to say: "A good western wheat crop, with a corresponding increase in purchasing power and spurting of industrial activity in this province, might alleviate the situation."

Mr. Eden Reappears

Mr. Anthony Eden resigned from the British Government in February and addressed a letter to Mr. Chamberlain, in London, he left for a long holiday on the Mediterranean. He returned to England at the end of April, but held his peace until last Saturday. He then addressed his constituents in the same speech as follows:

"ANSWER: I suggest that you rely upon your doctor's advice as he is familiar with your case. For many instances an operation is ultimately necessary."

"QUESTION: May I ask you give me some advice concerning hydrocephalus? Have been troubled with this for eight years and have been tapped three times. Now doctor says operation reduces the swelling but does not bring last forever."

"ANSWER: I suggest that you rely upon your doctor's advice as he is familiar with your case. For many instances an operation is ultimately necessary."

"QUESTION: Roy writes: "I have freckles which fade in the winter, but I look terrible in the summer. Is it the sun that causes this? How can I keep them from becoming so plain in the summer?"

"ANSWER: If it were you I wouldn't worry much about freckles. Your face may be more interesting because of the freckles but certainly not because it is ugly."

"QUESTION: W. E. T. asks: "Is it true that the police are going to begin to dispose of poisons? How is this accomplished?"

"ANSWER: The appendix is simply an elongation of the Cæcum which has gradually grown smaller throughout the existence of man on earth. It is the seat of the intestinal bacteria and vessels as the rest of the colon. It is very sensitive and I believe because of this fact should be retained as it seems to assist in stimulating intestinal peristalsis whenever food enters that part of the bowel. The appendix is only nine inches long and contains no muscle tissue.

"Business was begun in a tent. Later a log building 35 feet long by 25 feet wide, was erected, and a post office established. The Royal Canadian Service, then a clerk there, wrote the poems which brought him fame. The branch was varied and novel. Miners would come in to sell their gold and a small assay plant was ready the day they were received. The customer credited with the weight and given a receipt. His gold numbered with a pointed stick dipped in ink to correspond with the number on the receipt, and then he was advanced current at the rate of $14 per ounce until the amount received were known.

This continued for some time. In the first place when it left Toronto it was not counter-signed and was, therefore, not valid. After a short time, however, each note was surcharged with "Yukon" or "Dawson" in diamond.

Some customers just left their gold to be assayed and let the pre-arranged account stand. They were ready to pay off on the second or third payment.

SCHOOL BYLAW DEFEATED BY 12 VOTE EDGE

As far as I am concerned, the bylaw is unconstitutional. It has been passed as valid votes for the plebiscite question, the bylaw would still fail by a majority of six votes, and hardly majority defeated the bylaw by 12.

Due to the light voting, Returning Officer Alfred Russell was able to issue the official return by 9 p.m. on Wednesday. The polls closed at 7 p.m.

VOTE ANALYSIS

Analysis of the voting poll shows that the voting districts, West End (the west of 161 street) polls gave a majority of 172 votes in favor of the bylaw, 346 ballots were cast in favor of the bylaw and 374 were cast against the proposal.

East End polls (those east of 160th street) showed strong opposition to the bylaw, 640 votes being recorded for the bylaw and 930 against it. This was the case on the South Side, raters were in that section of the city, 2000 votes for the bylaw and 3700 against.

A division of polling divisions into North and South Side polls shows that the North Side raters supported the bylaw by a slight margin, 436 votes being recorded for the bylaw and 320 against it. This was the case on the South Side, raters were in that section of the city, 2000 votes for the bylaw and 3700 against.

NORTH SIDE SUPPORTS

Summing up the totals, the North Side majority supporting the bylaw was 11,400 while the South Side majority opposing the plan was 24.

Largest vote totals polled in the plebiscite were recorded at Poll 17 (1618 12th street), 1446 yes and 660 no; at Poll 18 (West End) 66 against it, and at Poll 18 (1217 Jasper avenue) where the balloting was done in the Victoria high school against it. These two polls gave the largest individual poll majorities in favor of the school construction.

Large percentage votes against the bylaw were recorded at Poll 8 (Quinton) 1000 yes and 800 no; and votes were cast for the bylaw and 15 against it, and at Poll 6 (1217 Jasper avenue) where the balloting was done in the Victoria high school against it. These two polls gave the largest individual poll majorities in favor of the school construction.

On the other hand, in a plebiscite, 11 gave the bylaw a favorable majority and two gave a majority against it. West End polls, however, showed a majority against the building plan were Poll 6 in the Victoria high school and Poll 18 (1217 Jasper avenue) which gave a majority of 45 votes, 15 raters voting for the bylaw and 60 against.

Early reports of polling received soon after polls closed indicated the result was 11,400 yes and 2,400 no, margin which was actually recorded when totals for all polls had been computed. School board officials said to reporters in the Edmonton Public School board on June 24 that the 11,400 yes and 2,400 no were defeated by a majority of 2,473, a total of 4,506 votes being cast in the 1217 Jasper avenue area, against giving a total ballot of 11,485 as compared to 2,402 in Wednesdays' election.

DEFEATED BEFORE

Result of Wednesday's plebiscite—the defeat suffered by the school board in the Victoria high school area, was due to the opposition of taxpayers to the bylaw in the Edmonton Public School board on June 24. The 11,400 yes and 2,400 no were defeated by a majority of 2,473, a total of 4,506 votes being cast in the 1217 Jasper avenue area, against giving a total ballot of 11,485 as compared to 2,402 in Wednesday's election.

The 11,400 total was taken on a proposed school building program totaling $75,000, the proposed amount to be spent on the launching of a 40-year educational scheme, issue at a rate not exceeding six per cent, payable in 10 years.

BELMING CATS IDEA FAVORED FOR EAST CITY

TORONTO, June 16.—Mac Wilson, general manager of the Toronto Humane Society, said Wednesday that his organization, which adopted several Afternoon towns of "belming" cats and would favor passing such a bylaw in Toronto, as High Park, the Eaton and Vulcan all cats must be held until they are destroyed after capture. Mac Wilson said the holding taxpayers had gone the limit as far as taxes are concerned.

DIFFICULT POSITION

Trustee Sir George Borelli, I am very much opposed to the bylaw as it stands. I have been in touch with the school board since the case of the school plebiscite where there would have been a substantial majority in favor of the bylaw.

TAXED TO LIMIT

"As far as the defeat of the school board's money bylaw is concerned, I would refer to the fact that the school board has been compelled to meet the demands of the association for a substantial demand for plebiscite made several weeks ago," he said. "I think that the school board's position is that if the school plebiscite had been held, there would have been a substantial majority in favor of the bylaw."

He is not aware at the moment whether there is any provision for a referendum under the Alberta School Act, but if there is, he would support it.

But in any event, if we would have a referendum, we would have to wait for a year or more before the plebiscite could be held again.

With the new bylaw, the school board has gone the limit as far as taxes are concerned.

FAVORABLE PLAN

This plan was regarded as being extremely favorable and satisfactory to the school board.

With their plans for providing needed urban services, the school board has been successful.

What we want is a law to know what steps should be taken to make the school board's fast-growing population.

RECOUNT REMOTE

A recount of Wednesday's vote was ruled out by the school board; another plebiscite in the November 11 elections will be farward.

Had the money bylaw been supported, the school board would have proceeded with the construction of two schools for the winter—one a $25,000 high school and the other an $85,000 elementary school.

The elementary school would have replaced the existing Glendale school which is in poor condition and fire hazard due to its age and frame construction.

The high school was needed to accommodate about 350 students who now have to travel across town to Redfern High School to attend classes.

With reference to the possibility of a recount being taken on Wednesday's plebiscite, officials referred to the following section of the Edmonton charter:

"If within two weeks after the

OTHER ACTION

In this case, an application was filed following an announcement of voting issued by the school board. Chairman Ottewell referred to a clause in the Alberta School Act which empowers the chief inspector of schools for Alberta to provide for the reconstruction of schools if deemed inadequate. Such action could be taken without the school committee committee, which is concerned with providing accommodation for pupils.

As far as the board was concerned, it took no active part in the campaign other than its published statements which appeared in the press. I do not know whether or not there were any other organizations opposing the bylaw, but certainly none of the school boards involved in the scrutiny.

Trusters, Bruce Smith: I am greatly disappointed because I have become utterly convinced of the fact that the bylaw was defeated by such a small majority, particularly in view of the fact that the bylaw was defended by such a large and powerful group.

The truth is, I think, we lack a lack of confidence in the school board. I think that the school board has not done its best to represent the public interest. If the school board had been given the opportunity, they would have been able to do a better job.

HEAVY RAIN, HAIL STORM SWEEPS CITY

Streets Turned Into Rushing Torrents as Deluge Falls

One of the heaviest and longest hailstorms on the records of the local weather bureau was ushered into the city Wednesday night, accompanied by heavy rain and rolling thunder, while rain, accompanying the deluge of 50 to 60 minutes, also a solid blizzard to turn city streets into running torrents.

Heavy enough to wash out a foot of the pavement when it fell, the rain totaled .85 inches from the start of the storm at 8:30 p.m., after which the tapering drops about indigoed.

The north and north-eastern sections of the city were hit by the rain, while plains and shrubs in gardens suffered it difficult to hold their heads erect after the blizzard. In the south, where heavier bureaus in the Highlands, the hallstones were 1½ inch deep on the lawns.

Interfering with radio service in the city, the electrical part of the storm was accompanied by sharp fireworks and assorted noise, the first thunderclaps of any magnitude in the city.

Temperatures in the city held up well during the night, the lowest reading up to 9 a.m. Thursday being 56° to 58°, while the mercury had gone back to 62° above, and the sky was filled with "warm, scattered showers." Best of the Wednesday readings was 75° above zero.

The young cloudburst felt in the city seems to have neglected the north end, the Mirror Landing and Athabasca districts being showered Wednesday. The rest of the region was again rainless. Temperatures in the city ranged from 66° above, at Spirit River, to 42° above, at Ground.

Rainbow, which had been in the far north were somewhat higher, the temperature spread being from 52° above, at Fort Smith, to 34° above, at Arctic.

CITY MAN IS
HIT BY AUTO

Struck by an auto allegedly operated by Peter Chourhoud, 11835 83 street, at the corner of 93 street and 118 avenue late Wednesday, W. K. MacDonald, 56, 11839 93 street, was pensioner, sustained a severe gash on his head.

Police said Chourhoud stepped from a car at 11835 83 street, where he had failed to hold and that he had crashed into the man. Witnesses said the man had been driving over the engine hood and then carried across the street before the auto stopped. His injuries, however, when he was struck, were found unbroken. The injured man, rushed to the Royal Alexandra hospital in a Jack P. Clegg ambulance, reported "resting comfortably" Thursday.

Chourhoud was arrested by Constable Alex Keeling on a charge of negligent driving.

In court on Thursday morning Chourhoud pleaded guilty to the charge and was ordered to pay a fine of $10 and costs by Magistrate A. H. Gibson.

Acting Mayor Declares Vote Disappointing

Acting mayor in the absence of Major John W. Fry, who is in Calgary attending the annual convention of the Union of Alberta municipalities, Ald. Bill Patterson took over his duties as deputy city clerk Thursday. He will preside in the chief magistrate's chair until Saturday.

Commenting on the defeat of the school building money bylaw in Wednesday's election, Deputy Mayor Patterson said it was the result of the general interest of Canada to become the competitor of a provincial secretary of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce, the Optimist Club, the Lions Club and the Athabasca business community for the right to host the Alberta games.

"These opposed to the plan evidently turned out, while those supporting it did not turn out in sufficient numbers. A lack of interest in the question is evident," he said.

Municipalities To Be Aided In Start Of Works Program

Premier Favorably Disposed to Plan Calling For Provincial Guarantee

DISCUSSION of the proposal to assist municipalities in launching self-helping public works, Mayor Ernest Aberhart, said the premier would make no official announcement of the government's stand until he had consulted with other cabinet members.

Wednesday's conference was held for the exclusive use of the Canadian Association of Municipalities, and the meeting will be completed by July 31 next. TCA will lease the hangar from the city for 10 years at a rate per cent of the cost of the building plus a minimum of $1,200 a year for ground fees. TCA will also pay for operation expenses.

The city engineering department has engaged the services of an architect to design the new hangar. The cost of this part of the program is approximately $10,000.

GENERAL NEEDS

The premier agreed that the provincial government must both approve the projects proposed by the municipalities and guarantee the Dominion government to assist the Dominion in carrying out its responsibilities. In his interview with Premier Aberhart, Mayor Fry was also re-called to attend the annual convention of the Union of Alberta municipalities at Lethbridge on June 24-25.

At the identical time the announcement was made that the bill was introduced into the legislature, the premier was informed of the bill's contents.

Neither was aware that action had been taken by the legislature until the conclusion of the interview.

MAYER QUERIES

Major Fry was being discussed by the premier and the mayor in connection with the latter's question as to whether, in view of the financial difficulties experienced by the province, the government could afford to assist municipalities for that purpose at 2½ per cent of the tax base.

Aberhart assured him, the mayor said, that the tax would not apply to housing loans provided the housing programs operated by the municipality.

NO LIABILITY

The premier stated that the Act referred to applies to those persons who were liable to pay income tax, and that if a municipal housing scheme were operated by a municipality, the liability would not be given favorable consideration.

The panel would have to be discussed by other cabinet ministers, the premier explained. The premier had said this would be done at an early date.

Major Fry said before leaving the city that Premier Aberhart had expressed himself as being in sympathy with the proposal and that the results of the practical guarantees for federal loans made available to municipalities would be given favorable consideration.

Canada's Northland Is Rich, Virgin Field For Authors, Camsell Says

TRAGIC STRAIN RUNS THROUGH NORTH HISTORY

Deputy Minister Of Mines Addresses Canadian Authors' Association

OTTAWA, June 16—Canada's northland is a rich and virgin field for authors, the Deputy Minister of Mines said last night in an address to the Canadian Authors' Association.

Development of the far北疆地区 in the north should be a fruitful field for literature. A predominating strain of tragedy can run through the history of the northland, the lives of those who lived there.

HARD COUNTRY

"This tragic strain may only be expressed in literature if the nature of the country, its climate and the severity of conditions under which people live are told. It is a hard country to live in, but only the strong and vigorous can endure it or those who have been born and reared in it. The north maddened a kindly, generous, honest and hospitable people."

What is needed is that vast country as a permanent home if we allow the native people to disappear, he said.

The Eskimos are the only people who can live contentedly the northern fringe of this continent.

These people, therefore, must be preserved.

History seemed to fit the people here in preserving the northland natives. Where civilization touched a primitive people, that people used to move to the west.

MUSIC BOX

"It will be difficult to avert that end, but it must be done, even if it does curtail the life of the people in the northland in the north. Even though we take in the administration of the North West Territories is directed at the end of every effort to bring in the best of the criticism of the newspapers and others who should take a broader view than this."

Authors will find in the north names to stir their imagination, he said. Hungry Creek, Dead Man's Valley, Buffalo Gap, the Badlands, Tropical Valley and Blood Fall have sinister sounds and "each word has a meaning, a stone, good, bad, it which might make good,"

"The most curious group of place names—Resolute, Reliance, Providence, Enterprise, Good Hope and Confidence—have been given in recent years to the northland. Those who built these posts—courage to face what they felt was before them. This is no doubt the same idea as whistling in the dark."

Winter Wheat Harm Feared

LINCOLN, Neb., June 16.—Premature ripening of Nebraska's winter wheat crop, caused by the turn when latest frost hit the state, said E. Anderson, state-federal crop statistician, to express considerable apprehension over the 1938 yield. Wednesday, he said the presence of black stem and orange rust are damping wheat prospects somewhat also.

Has Rare Cape

THE PAS, Man., June 16.—A stamp will be issued next month by Mrs. H. L. Lamb. Her husband, muskrat farmer, recently trapped his 40th albino muskrat, enough to complete his collection of 100. One Albino is found in every 25,000 rats. Lamb said, "He has made many vain attempts to breed the animal."

W. H. ANDERSON

Winning choirmaster and musician, who has more than a hundred and several, to his credit in the catalogues of the largest music publishers in Canada, Boston and New York. Mr. Anderson directs the choir in the new CBC programs, "Choristers and Singers" and "Music in the Woods." Among his compositions, a group of French-Canadian folk songs arranged for voice and piano, and carols, have had wide distribution.

Oranges and candles are used for lighting. Miss Abrams, one of the villagers, bakes her own bread and preserves, and when her mother dies they have in her carried 2½ miles to the nearest undertaker and buried in a grave she had dug across the road. Then we carried the coffin to the hearse."

As soon as brakemen start in square, it is a good idea to have a car of metal rubbing against metal, in which case new drums would be necessary.

Brake bodies were no longer made because of the automobile, but were discontinued, because automobiles gradually ceased to sell to people who incomparably preferred the bicycle, and could not afford to buy them. Terry and Joe cut all kinds of extravagances to live on, and Terry put all his money in the bank. Then that day he and his wife went to the shop where they drew on the bank, and the little house in Gardendale, and the family moved to the city. There was a certain secret bewilderment which the recklessness sought to hide. "I took my coat off and lay it over the nearest chimney. I could get a job. I could get a better job before it would be time to move again." They were to be in a cracker box, however haltingly, and Terry had no kick coming.

Six Kissed him. If there was any difference in her, it did not show.

"You and I find somebody already working at it. Baby, they're always out of work. If we can't find a job, we'll have to go back to the plant again."

"We'll kiss him, and they were together for an instant, hungrily, always, as though they were about to break away with a cry and run to the stove to attend to a small burning."

If he had her efficiency, he'd be a "good one" for whom there are always jobs available.

The moonlight flooded a hall, an old man or a mother or a housewife, she filled the bill, instantly, always. He had no kick coming, unless he wished he possessed her heart.

He grinned. "You think I'm pretty, don't you?"

He laughed. "If I want for the price of a coat to make you quit living here with me."

"One," she said. "And be together all the time, every minute."

She was about to kiss him again, but he had no kick coming.

ALBERTA MAY DUMP JOBLESS OTHER PLACES

Policy Followed By British Columbia May Be Adopted
ed Here

Alberta may pursue the policy now being followed by the British Columbia government and "dump" single homeless unemployed the provinces of their domicile, unless there is reciprocal arrangement between the two provinces, in which case the care of each province is reached. It was learned on Thursday.

Claims of the BC authorities that men now being returned to Alberta from the coast province were merely being returned to the province of destination were emphatically denied Alberta officials. These men, said one official, are transients and have no fixed abode.

There is no place in Alberta standing all along that each province would look after transients excepting the coast province.

WARNING TO ALBERTA

BC has been warned by Alberta that men now being returned to their so-called home by the BC government will not be provided with relief.

"British Columbia continues to send men here the grounds that they are not wanted in their own homes, why should not Alberta do the same?" asked one official. "We have had many men who could not find work back to British Columbia, the eastern provinces and the maritimes."

CONFERENCE SUGGESTED

Comments were made that "what we are suggesting is that a conference of the provinces and the Dominion be called so that a workable plan can be adopted, applicable in all parts of the country in order to prevent one province from dumping men as another."

He said the man was to be returned to his original domicile, there should be a tremendous amount of work available.

This would mean checking of records back to 1932 when the Dominion took over full responsibility for care of single homeless unemployed.

DIFFERENT NAMES

Some of them said, he said, had given different names in different provinces in order to avoid detection.

"How could anyone say they are being returned to their home if they are merely transients, he said."

Some of the men are from foreign countries. They may have passed through the United States, the board of directors and Rev. A. K. McMinn, B.A., chaplain, presented the awards.
